

MENTOR COACH

BEV WANN

BEVWANN@GMAIL.COM

For over 30 years Bev has partnered with leaders in educational and public sector organizations helping them successfully lead transitions, build committed teams, and develop their own competence and resilience. Bev is a Professional Certified Coach (PCC) from the International Coach Federation (ICF) and a certified Somatic Coach from the Strozzi Institute. She has provided coaching, consulting, and leadership development training to hundreds of executives, administrators, and faculty from a wide range of disciplines.

Bev has worked extensively with administrative leaders at the University of Virginia. She designed and led U.Va.'s first Executive Leadership Program, taught multiple leadership skill development workshops, and facilitated retreats for both academic and administrative departments. In addition, she has offered services to administrators and faculty at Virginia Commonwealth University, George Mason University, Washington University in St. Louis, University of North Carolina, George Washington University, and Duke University Health System, among other institutions.

As an adjunct faculty member at the Federal Executive Institute, the leading executive development organization for the federal government, Bev provided services to senior government leaders. She traveled extensively, providing leadership development courses and coaching for USAID (U.S. Agency for International Development) staff around the world.

Currently Bev coaches leaders in universities, nonprofits, and the federal government, and she mentors professionals enrolled in the Coach Diversity Institute's coach training program. In addition, she teaches her Personal Resilience workshop internationally.

She completed her initial coach training at the Coaches Training Institute and holds a M.Ed. in Counseling from the University of Virginia. As a volunteer, Bev teaches mindful meditation at a local women's prison and facilitates community racial awareness groups.
